

Charter of the Renewed United Nations

PREAMBLE

WE, the free people of the new German State, the Kingdom of Germany, and peoples of all contracting parties – FIRMLY DETERMINED to save succeeding generations from the systems which still bind mankind to the scourge of war and drives it to perform unspeakable acts leading to injustices and tensions among people and nations;

we, reaffirming our faith in the human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of all nations large and small, wish to establish conditions under which true justice and respect for the obligations arising from just treaties concluded without coercion and from other sources of international law which actually respect human rights and lead to peaceful progress can be maintained, pledge to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom

to employ our best efforts for peace, justice, a renewal of the systems serving people and the spread of values and ethics, to practise tolerance and live together in peace with one another as good neighbours, and to unite our strength to maintain international peace and security, to serve all people and the creator, to ensure, by the acceptance of principles and institution of methods that armed force shall not be used save in exceptional cases in the common interest for purposes of self-defence and to employ international machinery for the promotion of the ethical, economic and social advancement of all peoples –

HAVE RESOLVED TO COMBINE OUR EFFORTS TO ACCOMPLISH THESE AIMS:

accordingly, our governments, through agents who have exhibited their full powers and found to be in good and due form, have agreed to the present Charter of the Renewed United Nations and do hereby establish a supranational international organisation to be known as the “Renewed United Nations”.

Definition of terms:

A war of aggression is any act of war carried out on foreign territory by means of remotely controlled weapons, a country's own army, an army or group of mercenaries or other agents. This includes direct or indirect financing or providing armaments for a foreign group of mercenaries or rebels.

Defensive warfare is any act of war carried out against an organised armed collection of attackers from abroad or a national collection of foreigners organised and financed from abroad within a country's own territory to defend its own population, natural resources, infrastructure or national sovereignty or integrity. This includes leaving the territory in actual cases of defence.
